

9 THINGS NOT TO DO ONLINE

Everyone knows social networking sites like Flickr, Facebook, MySpace and Twitter are fun ways to keep touch with friends. But there are some things you should try to avoid if you want to enjoy your online experience. . .

- Updating your profile too often
- Uploading pictures that you don't want everybody to see
- Advertising full details of parties
- Accepting invitations from people you don't know
- Adding people you don't even know
- Putting your full contact details and detailed personal information up there
- Saying anything nasty about someone
- Saying anything you wouldn't normally say
- Joining chain mail groups

Facebook's fun, but stay sensible, and people won't react like this when reading your wall.